HVL | HIGH VALUE LOAD

GUIDELINES FOR CARRIERS

PICK-UP

- Before accepting a Magellan HVL assignment, drivers must ensure they have sufficient hours and fuel available after pick-up to drive at least 150 miles without stopping, where applicable.
- Before accepting a Magellan HVL assignment, drivers must complete a thorough inspection of the truck and trailer/container prior to pick-up to reduce the risk of breaking down in transit.
- Drivers must check the seal to ensure it has been properly applied prior to leaving the origin facility.
- Drivers must use the safest and most direct route to their destination.
- Certain truck stops pose a risk for drivers and their loads; therefore, Magellan Loss Prevention requests that truck drivers do not stop at select.

TRANSIT

- Team drivers should be used whenever possible to avoid frequent stops and allow the load to be delivered from the origin facility to its intended destination. If a team is assigned to a Magellan HVL, one member of the team should remain with the truck at all times.
- Solo drivers can be assigned to a Magellan HVL.
- If the driver has to stop while en route, they should park in a well-lit area, back against a building or pole to prevent the rear doors from being opened, lock all doors and remove all ignition keys.
- Certain truck stops pose a risk for drivers and their loads; therefore, Magellan Loss Prevention requests that truck drivers do not stop at select locations.
- The truck and trailer must remain hooked at all times until the load is delivered.
- At each stop, the driver should communicate with their dispatch and inspect the seal. The driver should check the seal number against their BOL paperwork.
- Should the driver notice anything unusual or suspicious, they should contact 911 or follow company protocol.
- HVLs are not to be taken to the driver's home (or the homes of relatives or friends).

DELIVERY

- All HVL's must be taken to a secured drop yard.

In the case of an accident or theft please contact the Magellan Emergency Operations Center at 1-866-699-9394
