NOTE: CARRIER agrees that a) in the event that Cargo is stolen or has gone unaccounted for during the period of transit for which it is responsible, as a result of which b) said Cargo or any portion thereof is rejected for delivery at destination on account of the advancement of any claim of actual or perceived risk of tampering or adulteration to same that c) CARRIER shall then be bound by any such rejection decision and bear liability accordingly in accordance with the provisions herein on the basis that such loss to cargo has been conclusively determined without recourse to mitigation or salvage principles .
NOTE: CARRIER agrees to be liable for loss, damage or delay to any shipment (or part thereof) of a) products intended for human or animal consumption, b) products intended for personal use and/or application by humans, and/or c) means of packaging or containment of the foregoing (including material having the intended use of forming any part thereof). (Items i) through iii) aforesaid are hereafter collectively being referred as "Consumption Product". CARRIER agrees that any of the following circumstances will be deemed and conclusive proof of adulteration for the purposes of applicable law and that the delivery of same may be rejected by a consignee or a receiver, resulting in a claim for loss for which CARRIER shall be liable:
a) where in a shipper or consignee's sole judgment Consumption Product either has been, or is apprehended to have been adulterated, rendering the same at risk for consumption or use, arising as a result of a transportation incident while under the actual or effective control of Carrier;
b) where a seal indicated on an origin bill of lading or other similar transportation record has been disturbed in any way while Consumption Product was under the actual or effective control of CARRIER (including, without limitation, the same being disturbed by any unauthorized individual). It is agreed that this sub-section ii) shall not apply where a seal has been removed or disturbed by any legal authority;
c) where Consumption Product has been transported or handled by CARRIER under conditions that do not conform with Shipper's or BROKER's instructions provided to CARRIER.
